

Does the product have a therapeutic purpose?

Product is not regulated under the Medicines Act 1981

Product is Regulated under the Medicines Act 1981

Does it meet the definition of a psychoactive substance?

The product is a psychoactive substance

Is it taken orally?

Is it presented in a "therapeutic type" dose form?

If presented in a "therapeutic type" dose form such as a tablet, capsule, or controlled amount of oral liquid or powder, the product may be a dietary supplement.

It is a supplemented food if it is represented as a food that has a substance or substances added to it or that has been modified in some way to perform a physiological role beyond the provision of a simple nutritive requirement.

Is it used to beautify, cleanse or protect hair, skin, teeth or complexion?

The product is a cosmetic and the EPA's Cosmetic Product Group Standard may apply

Seek advice on how the product is regulated

Does it fall within the definition of medical device in the Medicines Act 1981?

The product is a medical device.

Does it fall within the definition of related product in the Medicines Act 1981?

The product is regulated as a related product

The product is regulated as a medicine.